CASL Will Need YOUR Help in a Voter Competition Grant

Starting September 1, CASL will be reaching out to our parents and coaches for their help in winning a grant from Liberty Mutual Insurance. These funds will help CASL fulfill its mission of providing the highest quality instructional and competitive opportunities for youth athletes and to be a partner in improving the quality of life in Wake County. CASL can win a $2500 community grant to help improve programming at all levels and ages of play through coaching education for volunteer parents, scholarship aid, or equipment needs. We will register CASL on September 1 and then it will be open for voting. All you will have to do is complete a Responsible Sport Parenting or Responsible Coaching quiz and credit the point to CASL. At the end of the three month competition, the organization with the most points earns the $2500 grant. CASL could be one of five large youth sport organizations to win this grant. More information to come!

CASL Team Volunteers with CASL Community Outreach

CASL U-12 Premier White Ladies donated their time on Saturday morning to CASL's Community Outreach program. A few of the girls were on hand to help with the Haven House Clinics, which are run in conjunction with the Diversion Program at Haven House Services of Raleigh. Nearly 30 youth practiced technical skills, played "versus" as they call it, which is 1v1, 2v2, and 3v3 small-sided games, and then scrimmaged. Following Haven House Clinics, all 13 Premier White Ladies were on hand to help with HEART, which is a CASL run soccer clinic for youth with intellectual disabilities. Many of the girls paired up with HEART participants and helped them navigate through small sided games and scrimmages. Everyone had an amazing experience, and we hope that you and/or team may want to join us for a community outreach volunteer opportunity.. Names: Taylor Otto

CASL Affiliation: '96 CASL ECNL

Other Affiliation: U17 National Team

Taylor is currently in England with the U.S. U-17 Women's National Team. She is one of 20 players who were called up by head coach B.J. Snow for the event. The 10-day trip began August 19th and will wrap up on August 29th. Taylor earned a spot in the starting lineup (circled in picture below) for the team in the first of two match-ups against England's U17 National Team on August 25 at Hinckley United Stadium. Team USA routed England 6-0, scoring three goals in each half. The two teams will meet again on August 28. Taylor trained earlier in the summer with the team during a 28-player training camp at Ohio State University. Taylor has continued to stay grounded during this exciting time, and at one point in her young career she credited a lot of her success to her CASL team saying, "Playing for this team has taught me commitment, how to compete, and how to deal with adversity. It has also taught me how to respect the game I love. Best of all, being on this team gives me the chance to be with my friends almost every day. This team is like my family."
